INTRODUCTORY.

The 26th volume of the Akron City Directory is herewith presented, and we are confident that it will fully sustain the reputation for completeness and accuracy established by preceding volumes through many years of usefulness

It seems to be expected that the Directory man will give, with each succeeding issue, an estimate of the population of the city, so in accord with this expectation we submit the following Fifty-three Thousand Two Hundred (53,200) as a conservative estimate of the population of Akron at the present time

The rapid growth of the city is evidenced in more ways than simply an increase in the number of names in the Directory. New manufacturing plants, office and store buildings, as well as new residences, are seen on every hand, while business of all kinds is increasing in a marked degree. These all show that Akron is growing and growing rapidly.

We give, as heretofore, Directories of Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls, both of which show substantial growth.

Our thanks are hereby tendered to all who have, by their patronage or in other ways, helped and encouraged the work.

The next volume will appear in June, 1904.

Respectfully,

THE BURCH DIRECTORY CO
