BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE: OASIS (Older Adults Service and Information System), founded in 1982, is a "national nonprofit educational organization designed to enhance the quality of life for mature adults," focusing on wellness, volunteer and educational programs and activities. The Akron OASIS program began in 1986. Its members participated in national OASIS initiatives such as the Intergenerational Tutoring Program and Science Across The Generations. In addition, Akron OASIS volunteers produced a community access channel television show called OASIS Reaching Out. This show provided information about OASIS as well as public service information geared toward senior citizens. Volunteers also interviewed many local individuals who were active in area businesses and organizations. Akron OASIS closed in August 2007.

RELATED COLLECTIONS: More information on the Akron OASIS program can be found in Akron Beacon Journal articles of January 8, 1986; March 3, 1988; August 14, 1991; and August 1, 2007.

SCOPE AND CONTENT: This collection consists of videotapes of OASIS Reaching Out, originally broadcast between 1987 and 2008, and one box of paper records. The majority of the videotapes are interviews of local individuals representing various Akron and Summit County organizations and businesses. Some videotapes are shows focusing on OASIS, its volunteer activities, and examples of the public service information OASIS offered its viewers. Also included are two oral history interviews conducted by the Summit County Historical Society as part of World War II: The Homefront Oral History Project of OASIS. Miscellaneous paper records include business records, correspondence, publicity, and information about local people and organizations considered for interviews. Interviewers included Erma Baker, Eva Borsos, Emalou Brumfield, Olive Brungard, Victor Burke, Addie Cook, Judith Cox, Natalie Dell, Mary Frasca, Lucille Hollinger, Jeanette Howdyshell, Tricia McKinney, Liz Manuel, Margaret Olds, Frances Pake, Edna Bradford Ratner, John Schubert, Elizabeth Seuffert, Nancy Sutphin, Barbara Worrall, Marcella Wyers, and Elaine Young.

ARRANGEMENT: Videotapes are arranged chronologically by date given on original labeling, usually date of taping or broadcast.
